Nick Williams is one of the lucky ones.

Even at the young age of 12, encouraged by his artist mother and influenced by a plant-loving family, Nick recognized his passion for garden design. Winning horticultural awards throughout his school years, he soon established an up-close and personal relationship with a variety of plant materials, many of which continue to dominate his plant palette many years later. With a keen appreciation for textures and anything out of the ordinary, Nick's designs reflect a strong collaboration with the ideas and aesthetics of his favorite heroes - Frank Lloyd Wright, Cliff May, and John Muir.

Nature and Her elements of life - earth, air, fire and water - are the most striking forces that appear in Nick's work. Rich with design elements, including large boulders, water features, wood structures and a variety of stone materials, his outdoor-living creations gently invite one out through the door of the house and into the sights and sounds of the outside world.

With many years of experience in home renovation for his own personal pleasure, Nick has tapped into an exciting fashion of "bringing the outdoors in" for his clients. The use of French doors in lieu of windows and the creation of outdoor "living rooms" -- which include fireplaces, BBQ centers, and areas for food and drink preparation and entertaining -- add to the feeling of comfort and elegance. These purposefully placed features, along with the sounds of water falling over rocks into pools and ponds, can sometimes confuse even the most trained eye in determining their actual whereabouts in a Nick Williams' designed yard!

Remember - good design doesn't have to cost more money - it's just good design!

Our collection of “romantic” garden lighting will add a distinct and dramatic feel to any landscape design. These products are a result of many happy and successful years in the landscape design industry. It is our distinct pleasure to offer you our collection to incorporate as your own.

Sincerely,

Nick Williams- Designer
